March 2023

Dear parents/carers,

Year 12 mock examinations will take place from Tuesday 2nd May 2023 – Friday 12th May 2023, for which, your child has been issued with an examination timetable. Please note that any clashes between exams have been identified and alternative provisions will be made.

Throughout the Year 12 examination period there will be no timetabled lessons, allowing students to focus their time on revision. During this period of study leave, Year 12 students can choose to revise from home and only come in for their specific examinations. They may choose to study in college if they prefer.

These examinations are an important measure of a student's progress on their A Level courses so far and we will use the results of these to help us assess students' suitability to progress to Year 13.

In addition, the results of these examinations form part of the decision-making process for formulating university application predicted grades. We report predicted grades as part of the UCAS application process and are required to ensure our predictions are grounded in assessment data. It is therefore essential that students take these examinations seriously and make every effort to revise as they would for an external examination.

Should you have any queries please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours sincerely,

Mr Nicholas Sutton
Director of Sixth Form
Assistant Principal
