Coursebook: we use the digital format of the AQA AS then A level course in Kerboodle. Pupils are also issued with a hard copy of the accompanying books, as well as study guides for the literary text and film.

Transition work:

1. From your GCSE work, it will be important that you are familiar with the vocabulary from the course, and with the key tenses and main irregular verbs. Use the verb charts in the back of the Kerboodle books to help with this. You may wish to make index cards of the main irregular verbs in different tenses.
2. Keep the GCSE vocabulary ticking over also - the knowledge organisers would help for this as well as Quizlet.
3. I have made a new class on Quizlet for your group and put all the modules of vocabulary on there so you can make a start. Please join the Quizlet class using the link below. Some of the sets are very large, so you may want to break them up a bit!

4. You will notice above that the course contains study of texts and films. We study La Casa de Bernarda Alba by Lorca, which is a play, and the film El laberinto del fauno. Try to watch the film at home. It's English title is Pan's Labyrinth.

5. With regard to the play, reading a version in translation (The House of Bernarda Alba) would be really useful. I would avoid filmed versions of it as many of them have doctored it for the benefits of filming. Both the film and the play are quite dark, but please don't let this put you off as we delve into the background as they centre around a very interesting period of Spanish history.
6. Read and make notes about the life of Federico Garcia Lorca - the playwright.
7. Find a Spanish news site online and read the daily headlines. Try to read one article in full.
